Hook up a CATERPILLAR Tractor to your plows, discs, drills, or any machine, and know what real farming power is. Power to haul heavier and larger equipment; power to work deeper, and to do that work steeper and cheaper than any other power you have used before. You have no power problem that a CATERPILLAR won't solve—the power troubles that a CATERPILLAR won't eliminate.

SPORT NOTES

STARTS SIXTH YEAR

Melvin T. Ott, of the New York Giants was twenty-one years old last fall. But in 1929 and 1930 Ott is starting his sixth year with the New York Giants. He came to the club at the age of sixteen. In 1926 at the age of seventeen he played in thirty-five games and batted .285. Without looking further into the matter you can put this down as a record—the only seventeen year old big leaguer who ever batted above .280. When Ott was eighteen years old he played in more than eighty games and slumped to .282. He broke out swiftly as a flock of stocks crash at last fall. But in 1929 and 1930 Ott came back again to the neighborhood of .330, and last year he was one of the star home run producers of the season. The young player starts his next season with a four-year average of .232. As he is still younger than most recruits who finally break in, he should be about ready to combine experience and youth and step into the middle of his finest year.

A PAIR OF GOOD FELLOWS

A group of friends were discussing the position of the new players of the A's.

"But you know there's no real feeling between Shires and myself," McGraw pleaded. "When Shires came up to bat while I was catching he used to say: 'Now we've got a couple of great guys here. You're the greatest catcher in the world and I'm the greatest hitter. Let's show 'em something.' He's really all right."

WHEN JOE TOOK IT STRAIGHT

George Barton of Minneapolis was writing sports when the first Viking landed on the shores of Lake Minnetonka, tells this one on Babe Waddell.

Joe Cauffman, one afternoon at Nicolet Park in 1919, accused the late Babe Waddell of being intoxicated.

"You've got me all wrong, Joe. I haven't had a drink in more than three days," answered the great and only Babe in a meek tone.

"Can that stuff?" was Fong's sarcastic reply. "Every time I get a whiff of your breath I have to run to the water tank for a shower."

HEARD ON THE STREET

Aunt Het says: "There ain't nothin' makes a woman madder 'n havin' to do without clothes or furniture, because her husband is big hearted an' generous with other folks."

"Hullo! Bought a saxophone?"

"No, I borrowed it from Jim Gannon."

"But you can't play it?"

"Neither can he while I've got it."

In the announcement of the revival at the Church of the Brethren made in The Herald last week, the typist spotted a perfectly good, complaint by misplacing one letter. The sentence should have read: "He believes in a happy religion and lives it." But the typist made it, "He believes in a happy religion and lives it." Can an apology ever fix it?

New Vicar: "Quite a lot of people had coughs during the sermon this morning."

Vorger: "Coughs." "They ain't coughs, sir, they're time signals."

Father (trying to force confession from thirteen-year-old son): "I'd like to know what court clerk with short pants dropped a coinette on the upholstery of the new car?"

Son: "Avi, Dad, it was just an accident. She didn't mean to."

An attorney recently received an amusing, if cynical, letter from an educated Indian client, who desired him to collect a debt.

After two pages of meticulously correct, in plain, the letter concluded: "If you cannot collect the debt by fair means, try legal proceedings."

The publisher was trying to demonstrate a simple experiment in the generation of steam.

"What have I in my hand?" he asked.

"A tin can," came the answer.

"Very true. Is the can an article of merchandise?"

"Yes, sir."

"Be silent. Now can any little boy or girl tell me how, with this tin can, it is possible to generate a vast amount of speed and power almost beyond control?"

O. S. Little boy raised his right hand.

"You say, answer, Carter."

"Yes, it is a dog's tail!"

IT'S STRICTLY UP TO

JIMMY McLARNIN

Jimmy McLarnin is taking his own good time in accepting a bout with other leading welterweight boxers. McLarnin probably rightly considers that he is as good a drawing card as even champion Jackie Fields, and even with a chance to win the title he demands a guarantee equal to that paid to Fields. McLarnin will receive little support in this stand, and this despite the fact that he is an idol in New York and Chicago. The Irishman from Vancouver is not to blame, as it is a well-known fact that he fears no rival, but his manager, "Pop" Foster, is in charge of the business end of the arrangement, and cannot see where McLarnin will benefit financially by winning the welterweight crown. Five years ago McLarnin knocked out Fields, but the latter has improved rapidly since then. He has developed a devastating punch, and seems to be immune to heavy punishment. It is, perhaps, true that Fields has never sampled a harder wallop than that packed by the boy from Vancouver, but "once stung, twice shy" has caused Fields to perfect his defense against these lightning attacks. McLarnin, as a test of his own power, has been hovering on the threshold of the championship for some time. Thompson has been outpunched by Fields, but only by the narrowest of margins, and he is a dangerous foe at all times.

FRANCHISE SOLD

The Oakland Hockey Club franchise in the California League has been sold to Allen and Cahill, owners of the Oakland Ice Arena, for $25,000. By Joseph H. Hasset, and William H. Hasset of Saskatoon, who were persuaded to buy the same one year ago for $100,000 by James T. Hasset, president of the league. Hasset is to remain as manager of the team, while Cahill, who produced many of the present-day stars in the National Hockey League from the prairies of Canada, will probably purchase a franchise for Sacramento or Long Beach California.

LIKE MATTY IN ONE RESPECT

Jim Tennant, the big rookie pitcher of the Oakland Hawks, evidently has enough confidence to make good in baseball, as the following story about him will indicate. Tennant is a big strapping fellow lacking not at all in confidence in himself and was the rookie who contributed one of the giants of the Giants' spring training camp sign, when he asked Larry Doyle how big Matty was. "Why I should say about six feet, one," replied Larry. "Well," said Tennant, "we start off even there, at any rate."

CRYSTAL GAZING

Baseball's full of questions, That flash on every hand; They're on the tongue of young and old, Throughout this noble land.

Will Denny Vance's arm hold up Will O'Brien now signs up? Will the big Bambino keep his stride, That made him all the rage? Will Hornsby lead the league again, Will Smith improve the Sox?

Will the Bostoners ever see the light, Or flounder on the rocks

Will Cuyler steal a raft of sacks, Will Hoyt live up to odd time form, Will the Falls be in the clear

The biggest question of them all, It's really just a one: It's one that's asked most every day, "Say, Bo, who will win the flag?"

THE FARMERS' PARTY IN SASKATCHEWAN

The attempt to found a Farmers' party in Sask., which is now being made, has been clearly foreseen by all who have been watching political developments in that province. Nothing could be more absurd or temporary than the existing political situation. The decision of the Saskatchewan electorate last June was an expression of a desire on the part of a majority of the voters to have a change of Government. But the alternative Government which is now in office represents neither in policy nor personnel the feelings and desires of the great majority of the voters who put it there. What happened in Saskatchewan was that a minority party, by virtue of furnishing through organization an opportunity for the expression of this feeling of hostility to the floundering Government, picked up a volume of support that it could not have commanded on its own merits. It is to be regretted that the Government was not induced to the haven of office.

After the situation had cleared up a bit the farmers were able to see that while they had put the Government out, the honors and emoluments of victory had been gathered in by another political party with which, in fact, they had nothing in common. From the moment

PREMIER BROWNLEE GET MORE MONEY

Advocating a larger salary for the premier of Alberta, the Edmonton Journal states: "The premier's salary is $8,500, in addition to which he has his seasonal indemnity of $2,000. In other provinces which are comparable to our own, the occupant of the post is more liberally treated. Both British Columbia and Saskatchewan pay $9,000, with the indemnity the same as here. The Ontario premier receives $12,000. Generally speaking, Canadians have been remiss in the financial provision that they make for those bearing the chief burdens of government. It is work, in determining what salary the Alberta premier ought to receive, it would be a mistake to be guided wholly by the practice elsewhere in the Dominion. Ordinary fairness and regard for the interests of Alberta both justify a substantial increase for the head of the provincial administration."

known the result of the voting was a more determined effort was made to secure the support of the farmers. Throughout Canada to represent the result as a victory for the Conservative party, the farmers were being a corresponding triumph for Mr. Bennett in the coming federal election. Mr. Bennett has announced that not repeatedly, and if we are not likely to hear it so frequently in the future it will be due to the fact that he sees in the movement for a Farmers' party in Saskatchewan the death warrant for his own administration at the end of the present legislative term, unless he can, in the meantime, make terms with it. Probably the Conservative Government of Saskatchewan, made up almost entirely of lawyers and doctors, will find it advisable, for prudential reasons, to forego open affiliation with the Dominion party, and to cast the "Co-operative" banner in the hope, which will doubtless prove fruitless, that the farmers will rally around the standard.

WH NOT KEEP THE PEOPLE INFORMED

The Alberta legislature make many laws and introduce amendments to other laws, that make it rather difficult for the average man to keep in touch with the multitude of restrictions placed up on the statute books. Not long ago auto drivers' licenses were added to the list, and there are probably many people who are not aware of such a law. Therefore, it should be secured, showing licenses must be paid for, and the farmer cannot even sell eggs direct to consumer without infringing an Alberta law. It looks as if we are tremendously burdened with laws and restrictions that make it difficult to live a law abiding life. However, with these laws included in our statute books, why not the government appeal the people of their laws by publishing a synopsis of same in its country newspaper.

As a consequence of the lack of publicity many law abiding citizens are innocently violating the laws of the land. The same way of advising the public of these new pieces of legislation is through the press of the province.—Initiator Province.

LANGDON

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Langdon are the proud parents of a baby girl, born March 30th, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Anderson are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby boy, April 2nd.

We are glad to say that Albert Bishop, young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bishop, is getting better after being a very sick boy for two weeks.

A large crowd of young people were entertained very delightfully at the home of Miss Victoria Barron on Saturday evening. Old fashioned games and contests were enjoyed by all and a very delicious buffet lunch was served.

Miss Louise Millet who was successfully operated on for mastitis March 28th, has recovered sufficiently to be able to come home this week.

Under the auspices of the Ladies Aid, a very good concert was held in the United Church, Friday evening, Miss C. De Long of Calgary, entertained with readings, which included a group of Pictures referring to church life. Whitcomb Riley's Bear Story, Wee Ta Party, Group of Pictures of Home Life, Drummond's "Little Halleluiah" and other numbers. The program was interspersed with songs and community singing. Mr. Jack Bates sang several songs in his usual delightful way, while Mrs.

Mr. P. H. Doolin is busy preparing to move to his future home in Kilmora.

Mr. John Vergin is making satisfactory progress after his accident of last week.

Mr. R. Edwards was a very successful exhibitor at the Calgary Horse Show last week. He brought home two firsts, and the reserved championship for his 3-year-old stallion.

Mr. Wm. Knapp returned home after a few days spent around the Arrowwood district.

Mr. J. M. Goode was a visitor to Calgary on Friday last.

The talk among farmers, that there is no straw this year, and that as a result feed is scarce, calls for a statement that has to be proven that straw has any value. As a feed it is good for bedding and that is all. The season's farmers realize that they must depend upon hay, alfalfa and corn, as feed the better. Straw has no real value whatever.

A Scotchman owned a theatre in a suburban town and went to a nearby city to get ideas for advertising as trade was bad. He came across a notice outside one big theatre to the effect that "All persons over 90 years of age would be admitted free." This gave him the idea he was wanting to put out. He caused a notice to be hung outside his theatre which read as follows: "All persons over 90 years of age will be admitted free (if accompanied by their parents)."

Kind gentlemen (to little boy eating an apple)—Look out for the worms, sonny.

Little Boy—When I eat an apple the worms have to look out for themselves.

Mr. Albertson and Mrs. Moore sang two duets "Whispering Hope" and "Marooned" beautifully. Rev. A. McDonald acted as chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. DeWard and children of Calgary visited at the Westman home on Sunday.
